On April 8, 2013 Middletown Police Officer Nathan Peck took a complaint alleging that two Wesleyan Public Safety Officer were videotaping a student. The investigation was turned over to Special Investigations Detective Daniel Petrulis. During the investigation the above arrested, Hodge, stated to Detective Petrulis that he did in fact videotape a student. The above arrested, Anderson, also stated during the investigation that he received video of the student from Hodge.

Based on statements made by Hodge and Anderson as well as the physical evidence obtained, Middletown Detective Petrulis applied for arrest warrants for both parties.

Hodge and Anderson were advised that there were active arrest warrants signed by the judge and they turned themselves into the police department at 7am this morning (July 16, 2013).

No further information will be available as this is a pending criminal case.
